Hi, this message is for Johnson. It's Stephen Cook calling. I'm back in the country in Australia. I filed for bankruptcy back in November, and I'm just trying to access some funds from a bank account that has funds in it, but because of the bankruptcy, the funds are inaccessible. So I don't have a telephone number either that you can reach me at the moment in Australia. I do have a Canadian telephone number, however, that you can reach me at. It is 647-963-3783. That's country code one. Also, my e-mail address is stephencooke.c@gmail.com, as you know. If you could get back to me as soon as possible, it'd be great if I were able to access some of these funds and just maybe speak to you about how to move forward with getting back up on my feet, I suppose. Anyways, I'll wait to hear from you. Again, it's Steven calling. Talk soon.

Hi Johnson,

Thank you for forwarding my enquiry to the relevant team and confirming that my bankruptcy estate has been finalised.

I appreciate your assistance. However, I urgently need clarification and action regarding the funds held in my Commonwealth Bank account when my bankruptcy commenced, totalling $8,504.47.

Both Commonwealth Bank and Westpac have advised me that they require communication or written instructions from AFSA before they can remove the bankruptcy-related restrictions and restore my banking access.

Could you please urgently confirm:

1. Whether AFSA has any remaining claim over the funds held in my Commonwealth Bank account at the commencement of bankruptcy.
2. Whether the finalisation of the estate means those funds can now be released to me.
3. Whether AFSA can issue written confirmation or formal instructions directly to Commonwealth Bank and Westpac confirming that the relevant restrictions can be lifted and my access restored.
4. Whether copies of any such correspondence can also be provided to me so I can present them to the banks if necessary.

I also need to emphasise the urgency of this situation. I have returned to Australia and am currently trying to rebuild my financial stability following bankruptcy. Without access to my banking facilities and these funds, I am facing the very real possibility of having nowhere to sleep tonight.

I am not simply seeking clarification for administrative purposes. Access to these funds is now critical to securing immediate accommodation and meeting basic living necessities.

Given that the estate has been finalised, I would sincerely appreciate this matter being escalated and addressed as a matter of urgency, ideally today.

Thank you again for your assistance. I look forward to hearing from you as soon as possible.

Kind regards,

Stephen Cooke Bankruptcy reference: NSW 2278/25/9 Email: stephencooke.c@gmail.com
