Dear Colleagues

I presume you have seen the property orders were made on 13 September.

We received into trust:

- $128,953.98 on 27 August from ???
- $134,967.12 on 28 August from ???
  - The total of the above is $263921.10.
- $1,760 being refund of overpayment for property styling. Our client undertook to pay this amount as you client did not wish to do so. Our client should therefore be entitled to the refund.

The Orders provide that our client receive $250,306 and your client the balance. After we pay $250,306 to our client from the $263,920.98, there will be $13,615.10. Please confirm these calculations, and provide bank account details for the account to which your client wishes the payment of $13,615.10 to be made.

Dear Stephen

See email from other side below. There are two issues:

1. Timing of distribution of funds in trust

The letter refers to the time limit for a party to seek review of the registrar's power to make consent orders. A party can seek that a Judge review a Judicial Registrar's property orders made by consent if an application for review is made within 21 days of the Orders. Many years ago (last century) I had a couple of matters where a party did this – they alleged they did not understand the Order they had consented to. It is one reason why the court introduced the requirement for an explanatory letter so the parties confirm they know what they are agreeing to.

I presume Heather is concerned you may receive your money and then seek a review.

Your Orders of 13 September say Heather and you are to each do within 7 days (eg, by 20 September) all things necessary to direct Ramsdens to distribute the funds. There is no basis for Heather to not do so until the 21 days are up (4 October). I have never had a matter where this request has been made.

You could bring an enforcement application but that will not be dealt with by the court before 4 October.

2. Use of styling overpayment refund

I thought you had paid from your own funds for the styling up-front back at the time of the styling. When involved in negotiating the Orders, I was unaware there had been an overpayment and therefore a refund due. I thought the agent, who I presumed had organised the styling, had unilaterally transferred the refund to our trust account along with the balance of the deposit. For this reason, I proposed you receive the refund of $1,760.

The email below suggests "the overpaid styling costs, which were paid from the joint sale proceeds without our client's consent" I am not sure what this means. On one reading, it might mean the agent paid the entirety of styling costs from the deposit rather than you paying from your own funds. Is this correct? – if so, given the agreement that you pay them from your own funds, you getting the specified $250,306 and Heather the balance might be acceptable.

The email also attaches an email chain including one email from you of 29/8 in which you say the refund is due to you only, and another of 30 August when you tell the agent to return the refund to the joint property pool.

Mind you, the orders do not say that Heather gets the entirety of all monies in our trust account – but rather the balance of the net proceeds of sale held in our trust account. If the refund is from monies paid from your own pre existing funds, then it is not part of the sale proceeds.

Dear Colleagues,

We refer to your email below dated 24 September 2024.

We are instructed our client wishes to avoid releasing the funds until expiration of the time limit for bringing an Application for Review of the Registrar's Exercise of Power in relation to the Consent Orders. Therefore, our client intends to authorise the distribution pursuant to the Orders on 8 October 2024, being the first business day after the expiration of 21 day period to file such Application.

Please see attached emails where the parties agree the overpaid styling costs, which were paid from the joint sale proceeds without our client's consent, are to be added back to the joint funds. As you are aware, the Orders state your client is to receive $250,306.00 and our client is to receive the balance. Therefore, our client is to receive $15,375.10 (inclusive of the overpaid styling costs). You will note the joint letter to the Court reflects this figure.

Please proceed with preparing a trust distribution authority. Our client will complete her bank account details and return the signed authority on 8 October 2024.

Yours faithfully

Dear Colleagues

Order 1 of the Orders of 13 September provides that within 7 days of the Orders each client do all things necessary to cause the funds to be distributed in accordance with the Orders. The Order does not require consent of your client.

We do not know what opposition your client might have. The 7 days has already passed.

We presume our client does not need to bring enforcement proceedings which given it arises from a failure to comply with court orders might attract an indemnity costs order.

The distribution of the trust monies is a simple matter. Please revert by close of business tomorrow.

Thu, Sep 26, 2024 at 6:30 AM

Dear Matthew and Avalon,

I want to address the delays that have occurred in distributing the funds per the court orders dated September 13, 2024. Although these orders were finalized on that date, I did not receive them until Wednesday of last week. While this did not cause me a delay in acting promptly, it was highly disruptive to my life. This type of disruption has been a recurring theme in my matter, where I have faced curveballs, surprises, and a consistent lack of genuine intent to resolve the issues at hand.

I have been the victim of ongoing abuse—financial and otherwise. I am forced to live a life where pertinent information required for me to make decisions is either withheld or presented with delays, leaving me scrambling to act quickly and decisively to avoid further financial damage. The entire marital relationship was abusive, characterized by neglect and absence. Conversely, Heather has become a successful cardiologist due to my sacrifices during our marriage.

Even now, I approach a deadline at the company I work for on September 30th. The ongoing distractions from my legal matter hinder my ability to focus, which has also impacted my ability to meet my obligations under the internship agreement I signed. Fortunately, my internship provider is very understanding of the situation. However, I am still very much without an income due to the disingenuous conduct surrounding my legal matters.

On September 19, I provided clear instructions to proceed with the distribution. The court orders are explicit in requiring the necessary actions to affect the distribution of funds, and they provide the ability for the Registrar to act if either party neglects their obligations under the orders (as per Section 106A of the Family Law Act). Despite these clear terms and my requests to action, numerous delays continue to prevent the timely execution of these orders.

On September 23, I requested clarification as to whether Matthew's email of September 20 constituted a formal demand letter. If not, I asked that a formal demand letter be issued immediately. Furthermore, on September 24, I requested that an enforcement application be raised without delay, yet it appears that no such action has been taken. I need to understand why my clear request for an enforcement application has not been acted upon, as this delay may cause further harm to my interests.

The continued delay tactics raise concerns that there may be caveats or undisclosed aspects of the final property settlement that I am not fully aware of. This situation is deeply troubling, and further delays may result in significant harm and financial damage. At this juncture, I also note a failure to accept the current order with respect to parenting, along with ongoing deception regarding the property settlement.

Given the urgency of the situation, I kindly request that the enforcement application be filed today, as previously instructed. Should these delays continue and cause damage to my interests, I will be forced to address those damages accordingly. I also recommend that the enforcement application include a request for an extension to allow for a subsequent application to vary the orders, should that become necessary, as well as a request for an estimate of costs associated with these proceedings.

Additionally, I need to have an application ready on standby to vary and expect all applications going forward to pursue costs, with my legal team clearly representing why this is necessary. If it does come to that, I am inclined to consider staying the final orders and using this recent episode as yet another example to advocate for the court to take into account the costs related to the final hearing for both property and parenting matters. As much as I really do not want to file a complaint with the law society, I am beginning to feel that I have no other choice given the circumstances.

Thank you for your immediate attention to this matter.

Regards,

Stephen Cooke

Dear Stephen

I have seen your email of this afternoon, replying to my email below, in respect of an urgent enforcement application. The steps involved are:

Steps to now

1. The Orders were made on 13 September. That is the starting point for the 7 days for each party to do all things necessary to direct Ramsden's to distribute the funds. Heather has not done so.
2. We were only advised by the Court of the Orders on 17 September. I advised you about this during the dispute resolution conference on 18 September. We sent you the Orders the same day.
3. We hold the monies in trust on behalf of both parties. We therefore have an obligation to both parties, and to the Law Society to comply with trust rules. We get audited each year.
4. We sent you an invoice on 19 September asking that you confirm we could pay it from your distribution.
5. We wrote to the other side on 20 September seeking confirmation as to distribution of the funds in trust as per the calculations therein. That included the application of the styling refund.
6. As you know, after some chase-ups from us, they finally replied this morning advising Heather prefers to wait for the 21 days to pass. We do not think you are obliged to do so. Their email also raised issues about payment of the styling costs. My email asked some questions about that. Your email of today did not reply to that part of my email.

7. Heather therefore has not given us authority how to distribute the trust monies within 7 days of the Orders of 13 September

Steps going forward

8. We can prepare and file:
  - a. An application in a case seeking Orders that:
    - i. A Registrar pursuant to Order 11 and s106A of the Family Law Act sign an authority directing us to distribute the monies. We need to quantify exactly the amounts taking into account the styling costs. So I need to talk to you about that – as raised in my email of this morning.
    - ii. Order for costs. If successful, costs orders are normally calculated on a scale basis – not the actual costs a party incurs.
  - b. Affidavit to be sworn by you, containing:
    - i. a history of paras 1 – 7 above;`
    - ii. How the styling costs were paid and therefore how the refund should be distributed.
9. The Application will seek the Authority for distribution of funds be signed by a registrar. The Authority should be sent to the other side today so we can attach it to the Application.

We cannot quantify the payment to Heather to go in the Application, affidavit or Authority until we have your instructions about the styling costs. Can we discuss that today. I have a conference at 2pm and should be available from 3pm. Can you talk after that?

Dear Matthew,

Thank you for your email outlining the steps required for the enforcement application. I would like to clarify the situation regarding the styling costs.

The styling costs were originally paid from my interim settlement, and Kent Conveyancing held back the funds for payment to Habitat. I have evidence of this from Kent Conveyancing. Simultaneously, Mike Flook at Robinson Property withheld the same amount from the property deposit and sent it directly to Habitat (Staging/Styling).

There was confusion between Heather and me when we were informed by Brook from Robinson Property that a double payment had been made. Heather and I subsequently resolved this by directing the second payment, made by Mike Flook, to the trust account with Ramsden Family Law.

Regarding the 21-day review period mentioned by Heather's side, I understand that this period pertains to the right to apply for a review of the orders, but it does not prevent the distribution of funds unless an application for review has been filed, which has not occurred in this case. As you indicated, we are not legally obliged to wait for Heather's approval, so I kindly request that you proceed with the distribution as soon as possible as we have already lost 5 days to challenge with the court if I'm required to do so.

We can discuss this further at 3:00 PM today.

Please confirm when I can expect the payment to be made, and if there are any further steps required on my end to facilitate this.

I also confirm my expectation that all applications going forward should pursue costs, given the unnecessary delays and the ongoing challenges.

Kind regards,
Stephen Cooke
