Dear Avalon,

Thank you for the re-cap—there is certainly a lot to consider, and not a lot of time.

For now, please proceed with whatever is necessary to have a subpoena issued to Chromis Occupational Medicine, located at 47 Church St, Maitland NSW 2320, to secure all information on file for myself, including the various drug and alcohol tests (urine and hair follicle) I have had done. We need to catch up to where Heather is at and get this request before the Registrar as soon as possible, ideally by today or tomorrow at the latest.

It is also my wish to communicate my position supporting a 50% / 50% parenting arrangement officially to Drew Cowen and the Registrar/court through the proper formal process, which as I understand is achieved by varying the initiating application. I'd like to get this across before the weekend, but after seeing the notices presented this morning, I'm now concerned I may need to include much more information in my initiating application. Do you have any advice in this regard? Can I vary the initiating application twice before Drew considers it?

I appreciate your prompt attention to these matters.

Best regards,
Stephen Cooke

Dear Stephen,

Thanks for taking my call.

I am just re-capping what we have discussed below.

1. Subpoenas

I mentioned in my below email that Heather needs to provide a letter to the Registrar explaining why she says the Registrar should approve the subpoenas – we do not see this letter. She does not provide an affidavit. The Registrar will consider this request in Chambers. You asked if we could request from Heather a copy of this letter – this is not something I have done before, so I will seek @Matthew Shepherd's input on whether this is possible.

The subpoenas need to be relevant to case and the issues in dispute e.g., do they go to the dispute about the best interests of the boys, or with whom they should live/spend more time.

You can object to the subpoenas if you can argue they're irrelevant or too broad.

I note you agree the subpoenas are relevant and do not wish to object to them.

2. Letter to expert

We have not yet drafted the index to the report writer. This will be drafted jointly and agreed to by you and Heather – you both need to agree to the documents Drew is to review.

As discussed, Drew Cowen's cost for his report includes review of a combined limit of 1,000 pages of material provided from the parties. Excess pages are any volume over 1000 pages and an additional invoice will be issued to the parties for payment prior to Drew reviewing excess materials.

I mentioned that usually the documents that are provided to the expert are those filed to date, and possibly subpoena material.

What you have filed to date and might consider including is:

- (a) Amended Initiating Application filed 2 April 2024 – 17 pages;
- (b) Notice of Child Abuse Family Violence or Risk filed 5 December 2024 – 13 pages; and
- (c) Affidavit of Stephen Cooke filed on 2 April 2024 – 52 pages.

However, you advised that you did not think there was sufficient material filed from you and wanted to file another affidavit to include additional material (as well as an another Amended Initiating Application discussed below).

You also instructed that you would like a subpoena issued to your employer for details on how distracted you have been and Chromus (please correct me on the entity name) for your drug and alcohol testing.

The documents for Drew to consider will obviously need to be determined and filed prior to finalising the index.

3. Amended Initiating Application

You instructed that you would like us to file an Amended Initiating Application as soon as possible (and prior to Tuesday) seeking orders that the boys spend equal time with you and Heather – being Monday night to Monday morning.

I note Matthew had previously advised he did not think this should occur prior to Tuesday in case Heather decided to seek to reduce your time further.

I am hopeful Matthew can give you a call tomorrow morning (after his mediation) to discuss this in detail.

4. Self-representing

We also discussed the potential of you representing yourself if these documents cannot be filed by us in time.

This is something you can also discuss in detail with Matthew.

As requested, your WIP is currently at $5,485.

Regards,

Subject: Request for Copy of Document Index for Family Report Submission

Dear Avalon,

Thank you for your email and the joint letter of instruction to the Family Report writer.

I have noticed that I have not yet been provided with a copy of the Index of documents to be included in the submission, as referenced in the letter. Could you please send me a copy of the document list at your earliest convenience so I can review it?

Thank you for your assistance.

Dear Avalon,

I am writing to request a copy of Heather's affidavit that supports the subpoenas she has recently filed. Given that subpoenas have been requested, I assume there must be an accompanying affidavit explaining the relevance of the documents being sought. I would appreciate receiving a copy of this affidavit for my review at your earliest convenience.

If no such affidavit exists, please let me know so I can further understand the basis on which these subpoenas were requested.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Dear Avalon,

I would like to confirm that my priority is to immediately change my position to seeking a 50/50 shared parenting arrangement. This needs to be actioned as soon as possible and certainly before our meeting on Tuesday. If it is not possible to have this done by then, please advise me on the necessary steps so that I can take the initiative to move forward myself.

Additionally, regarding the subpoenas, I plan to arrange an appointment to review all subpoenaed material personally at the registry. Could you please clarify whether you will be arranging this for me once the documents are available, or if I should take steps to do this myself once I am notified?

Please confirm at your earliest convenience so that we can proceed accordingly.

Dear Stephen,

1. Subpoenas

Heather has this morning filed four subpoenas to the below entities (attached):

1. Pillar Allied Heath – for records related to the boys;
2. Merewether Heights OOSH – for attendance records and notes related to the boys;
3. Merewether Heights Public School – for detailed records related to the boys; and
4. Atune Health Centre – for all records related to yourself.

It is likely that Heather will seek that the subpoena material be considered by any single expert in preparing a family report.

As there is no upcoming interim hearing, Heather will need to obtain approval from the Registrar to issue these subpoenas. As such, they remain 'unsealed' (see the first page in red of each subpoena) and cannot be issued to the relevant entities nor served upon us (and ICL) until the Registrar approves them. Heather needs to provide a letter to the Registrar explaining why she says the Registrar should approve the subpoenas – we do not see this letter. The Registrar will consider this request in Chambers and no one will need to attend Court (unless we file an objection).

It may take the Registrar some time to approve the subpoenas – sometimes several weeks. We will know once they have been approved as Heather's solicitor will serve them on us via email. Whilst it appears likely the Registrar will approve these subpoenas as they're closely related to the proceedings and not overly broad, the Registrar could always decline some of the subpoenas.

When the Registrar has approved the subpoenas, the Court will include on the subpoena front page the 'date of production' to provide the documents to the Court. This is usually two weeks after being sealed but could be longer. There is also no guarantee the entities will actually produce the documents in that timeframe either.

Once the date of production has passed, Heather's solicitors will file a 'Notice of Request to Inspect' and this will allow both her solicitors and us to receive the documents electronically.

You individually won't be able to receive a copy of the documents from the Court or from us – we can certainly describe what is in the documents and provide a summary, but we won't be able to send the actual documents to you. You can however make an appointment to view the document in person at the Registry – you can make notes but you can't take the documents with you.

The Court has some details on the subpoena process here.

What are your views on these subpoenas?

2. Family Report

Please find attached a letter from Heather's solicitor sent this morning.

Heather has proposed that you both share the costs of Drew Cowen's report. I note you wrote to us yesterday advising you agree to this.

As such, please find attached our draft letter to Heather's solicitor agreeing to pay for half the fees, and the draft joint letter of instruction to Drew Cowen (which will need to be signed by both sides).

We suggest we send these letters as soon as possible to secure dates with Drew Cowen so we can update the Court on 15 October.

Please advise if you are happy for these letters to be sent.

Dear Stephen

I have been mediating all day. I can see however that Avalon has well informed you about the subpoenas.

In respect of formally changing your position re the final parenting orders:

1. We can prepare an Amended Application.
2. We would need to insert the new Orders sought by you. So we need to think through how you propose a 50/50 arrangement would be best structured. There are few options including:
 - a. Amending the attached draft Orders you and I have worked on previously which set out a 8/6 arrangement and add an extra night somewhere.
 - b. Do an alternate week arrangement. You need to consider if being away from either parent for a week is a bit long for either boy at their current ages. If you propose alternate weeks, this could continue during school holidays except perhaps the long summer holidays.

I have time to discuss this tomorrow at 8.30. Is that a good time for you?

Dear Stephen

I am not sure if you need to issue a subpoena.

I was unaware you were doing hair follicle testing. I do not recall any of the Orders requiring you to do so. I presume you did it voluntarily to address Heather's allegations of excessive drinking, and to show you were following Order 7 of 23 April 2024 re neither Heather or you not drinking in excess of .05 6 hours prior to the children being in your care.

If the above is correct, you would be entitled to request copies of test results etc and we can then share them with Heather, the ICL and the court if you wish. This would avoid the costs of a subpoena. It would also mean we can check the documents first to make sure there is nothing you do not wish to share.

At the recent dispute resolution conference drinking was not raised by Heather as one of the reasons she proposes the boys have less time with you.

Dear Matthew and Avalon,

I need to move quickly, and I am concerned about the boys. My circumstances make this increasingly difficult. As you know, I am still working towards securing employment at Diamond IT, which adds to my stress and complicates my ability to focus on studying—something I desperately wish to do. I was hoping to offload wholly to you now that the financial settlement is complete, but this has proven to be challenging.

Unfortunately, it seems that the situation continues to escalate for illogical reasons.

A) Heather's proposed amendments to the draft orders at the recent dispute resolution conference clearly indicated her intent to impose alcohol restrictions only on me (by modifying from both parties to just the Father). This not only singles me out but also reinforces her insinuation that I have a drinking problem.

B) Despite follow-up and ample preparation time, my numerous attempts and the significant costs incurred in trying to present my drug and alcohol results to Drew Cowan previously were ignored, as outlined in Exhibit A. Notably, my results were produced to my previous lawyer on February 20, 2024, but were simply not provided to Drew. This lack of response further supports the validity of my approach to subpoena Chromis and have it officially added to the court record.

Given these challenges, I've decided to initiate the process via the court portal to represent myself. I understand the importance of being wholly involved to achieve the best outcome for my boys.

I need my Client ID to proceed, which I have requested, noting my mention at 2:00 PM on Tuesday. If you happen to have it, I would greatly appreciate your assistance.

In the interim, I kindly request a quote for filing the subpoena to Chromis later today in preparation for Tuesday.

On Tuesday, I plan to inform the Registrar of my intention to contribute to the report and file an amended initiating application seeking a 50/50 custody arrangement, which may be subject to a satisfactory drug and alcohol result from Heather. I will finalize my thoughts over the weekend and will likely need to pause on the drafting of the joint letter to Drew until these other matters are communicated to the Registrar.

Lastly, please take note of the time of this email, the evidence put forward in this email and attachments, and the circumstances I find myself in.

Thank you for your understanding, and as previously discussed, I could use your assistance from time to time on the backend.

Best regards,
Stephen Cooke

Are you sure that you want to represent yourself?

I have no insights in this regard as I am unfamiliar with what is involved in these hearings.

I probably agree with Mathew that a subpoena on your blood test is likely unnecessary. You could always mention it to the judge and offer it to the judge if she wanted to see it. That should be enough I would think.

Even if she could not admit it, she would know what it said as you had offered it.

Good grief.

So example B) in my email before demonstrates your suggestion = fail, in fact anything less than subpoena=fail.

Example A) demonstrates yet again a (be it purposely or inadvertently) a lawyer acting on my behalf and negligence to my detriment.

Now the time it took me to dig up this evidence and put this email together last night = 4hrs.

Plus, the reason encapsulated in my previous email and the shit I felt with over the last few weeks having to force my lawyer to file an execution order with the court.

I have quite literally demonstrated if I do not represent myself or do not give the matter the attention in this regards it will fail. Not maybe.

Be damned what I want. It's not about at all what I want. Ive pointed out that I am clearly unable to rely on anyone else but myself.

Howw ludicrous is it to lean into a job that pays potentially 50k per annum (45k after tax) when my hourly rate at the moment is $192.00? and again, Ive clearly demonstrated the inabilities of my legal representation past and present to represent me effectively.

The two possible future outcomes I'm concerned about atm;

A) continue to rely upon a lawyer to represent me and for one reason or another they continue to perform poorly. And so now my hourly rate to $24.00. But the damage does not end there.

My time is potentially reduced to two nights a fortnight and supervised visits on a Thursday and my kids grow up damaged and the court orders I have to pay whatever to support my kids and I have no relationship.

B) I represent myself in an effort to maintain my current hourly rate of 192.00, achieve 50/50 custody. Mitigate the psychological damage to the boys and myself. Be an involved father because I'm financially able. Still pay the same amount of money I would in option A for child support but be a part of my boys life.

It's not about what I want at all. Of course I do not want to represent myself. Obviously however I need to represent myself.

So more context, I have exchanged maybe 10 emails and 45min conversation the my lawyer yesterday and have still not been able to get him to issue a subpoena.

Not only does this ultimately frustrate me making it difficult for me to focus on work and studies, I paid at least a grand to effect no change in my matter, a grand!

I also had to spend the better part of my day coming to terms with being muted by my lawyer and strategizing how to tackle the issue of trying to offload to a lawyer who ultimately performs as a costly gate keeper of context shaping a formal image not representative at all of reality to the court of my views and who I am.

Good god.

Dear Stephen,

1. Notice of Address for Service

Please find attached your draft Notice of Address for Service to file on the Court Portal allowing you to represent yourself.

Please complete the remaining parts of the form – noting the form requires an address for service, but it does not have to be your residential address if you do not wish to disclose this. This form will be filed with the Court and everyone with access to the portal will be able to see it.

Once the form is signed and completed, please ensure you have registered with the Court Portal and upload it to the file. Further details on how to create/link a Portal account can be found here.

The Registry will then need to accept the document and remove us from the Portal, giving you access. This might take a day or two (hopefully less).

We do not have your client ID – this is something you can query with the Registry.

We have a duty to the Court to advise prior to a Court event that we are not appearing. Therefore, by today or Monday we need to file a Notice of Ceasing to Act (attached).

That form requires we provide an address to the Court and other parties for you. What address would you like us to provide?

2. Subpoenas

Our fee estimate for drafting the subpoena to Chromis is $500.

The subpoena would then need to be filed and request made to the Registrar to issue the subpoena.

Once leave has been obtained, you would then need to serve the entity (and the other parties) with the subpoena.

The Court has excellent information on the process here.

Please also note Matthew's comments below that when material is produced under a subpoena, all parties are entitled to review the material in its entirety – you're not able to review it first and determine whether you want Heather/ICL to see it. Thus, if you have the material (or are able to obtain it without a subpoena), it might be more beneficial to annex it to an affidavit rather than filing and paying for a subpoena.

Dear Stephen,

Apologies – you're correct. Our system sometimes automatically puts in the Sydney Registry address.

Further, please find attached the draft subpoena to Chromis for your review.

Would you like us to draft the letter to the Registrar seeking leave to file the subpoena? I anticipate it would cost about $88 (including GST) for us to do so.
